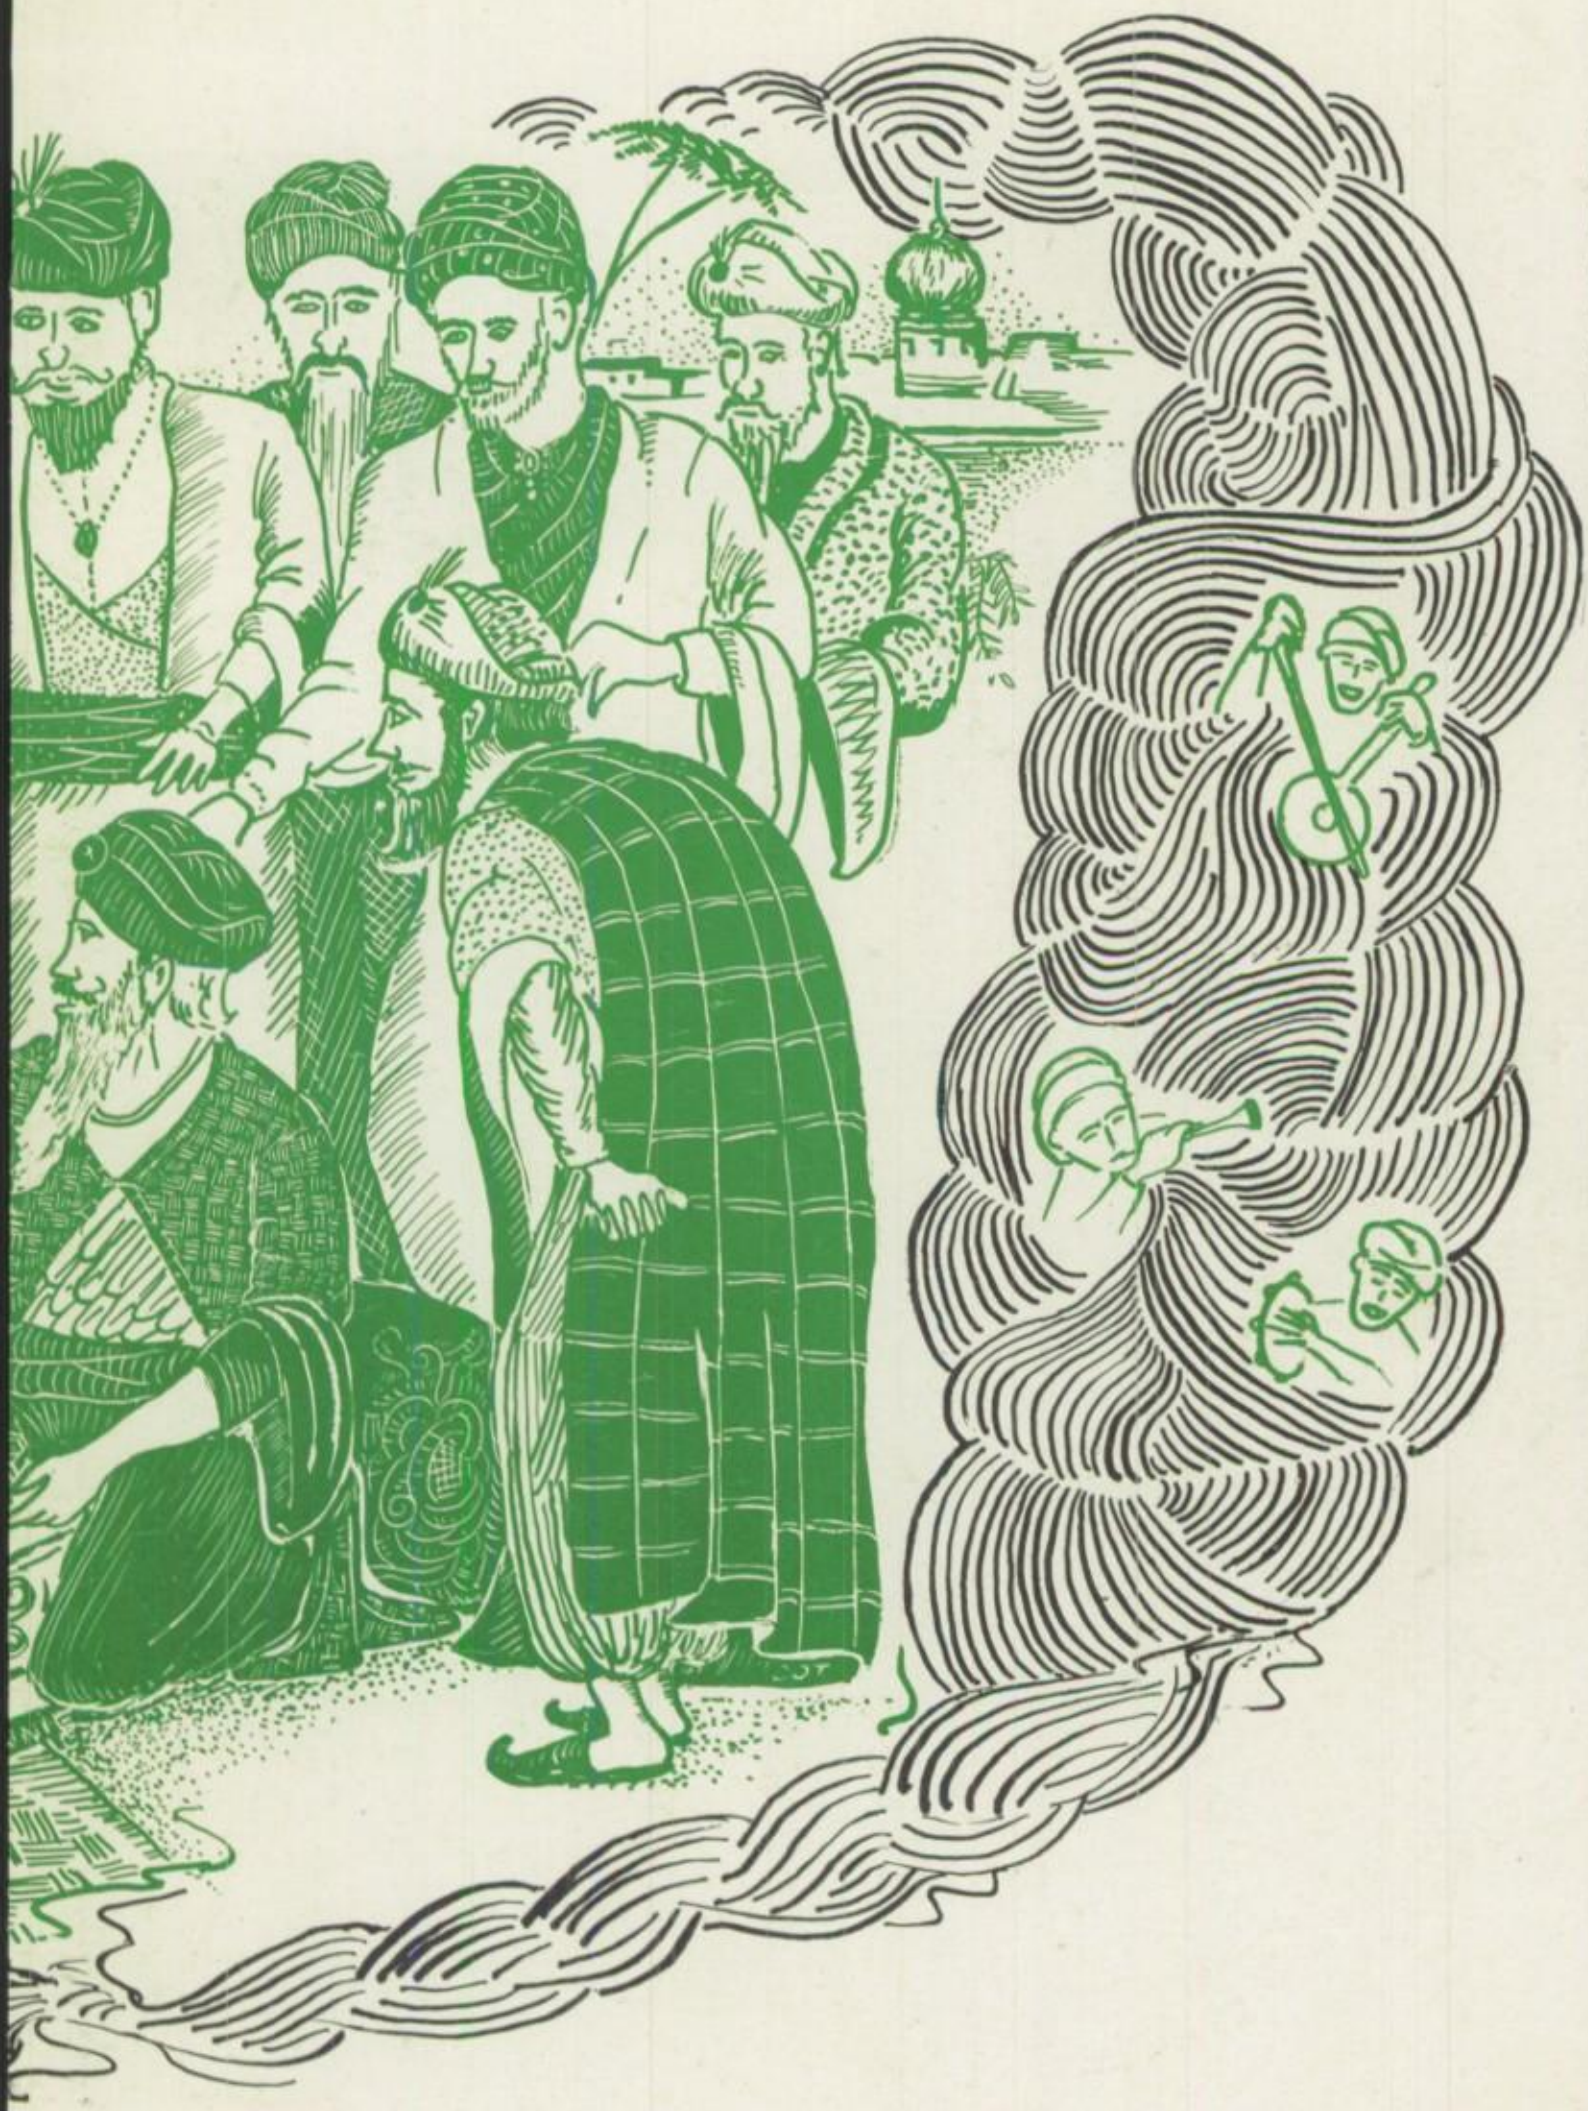
Our Theme . . . A



THEME

Open, Sesame, and let us view the treasures that you hold inside. Anxious eyes are waiting near, so spread your picture portals wide. Scheherazade in role you're cast, and only you can play the part, so spin your tales for eager knights, tales that enchant like Grecian art. None can explain the power you have of capturing interests as they stray. When solitude and memory meet, a moment soon becomes a day. For through your pages you depict the moments which we all hold near; the fields of interest far extend, though each is represented here. The memory is not prison strong; too often gems may slip and break. You've captured phases of our lives and marked them down, lest they escape. Each part of life at school is found between these leaves of kelly green — the pictures and the copy picked to make an image prism keen. And now waste not a moment more; fold back your leaves and start your tale. Your task is difficult and great, but such as you will never fail.

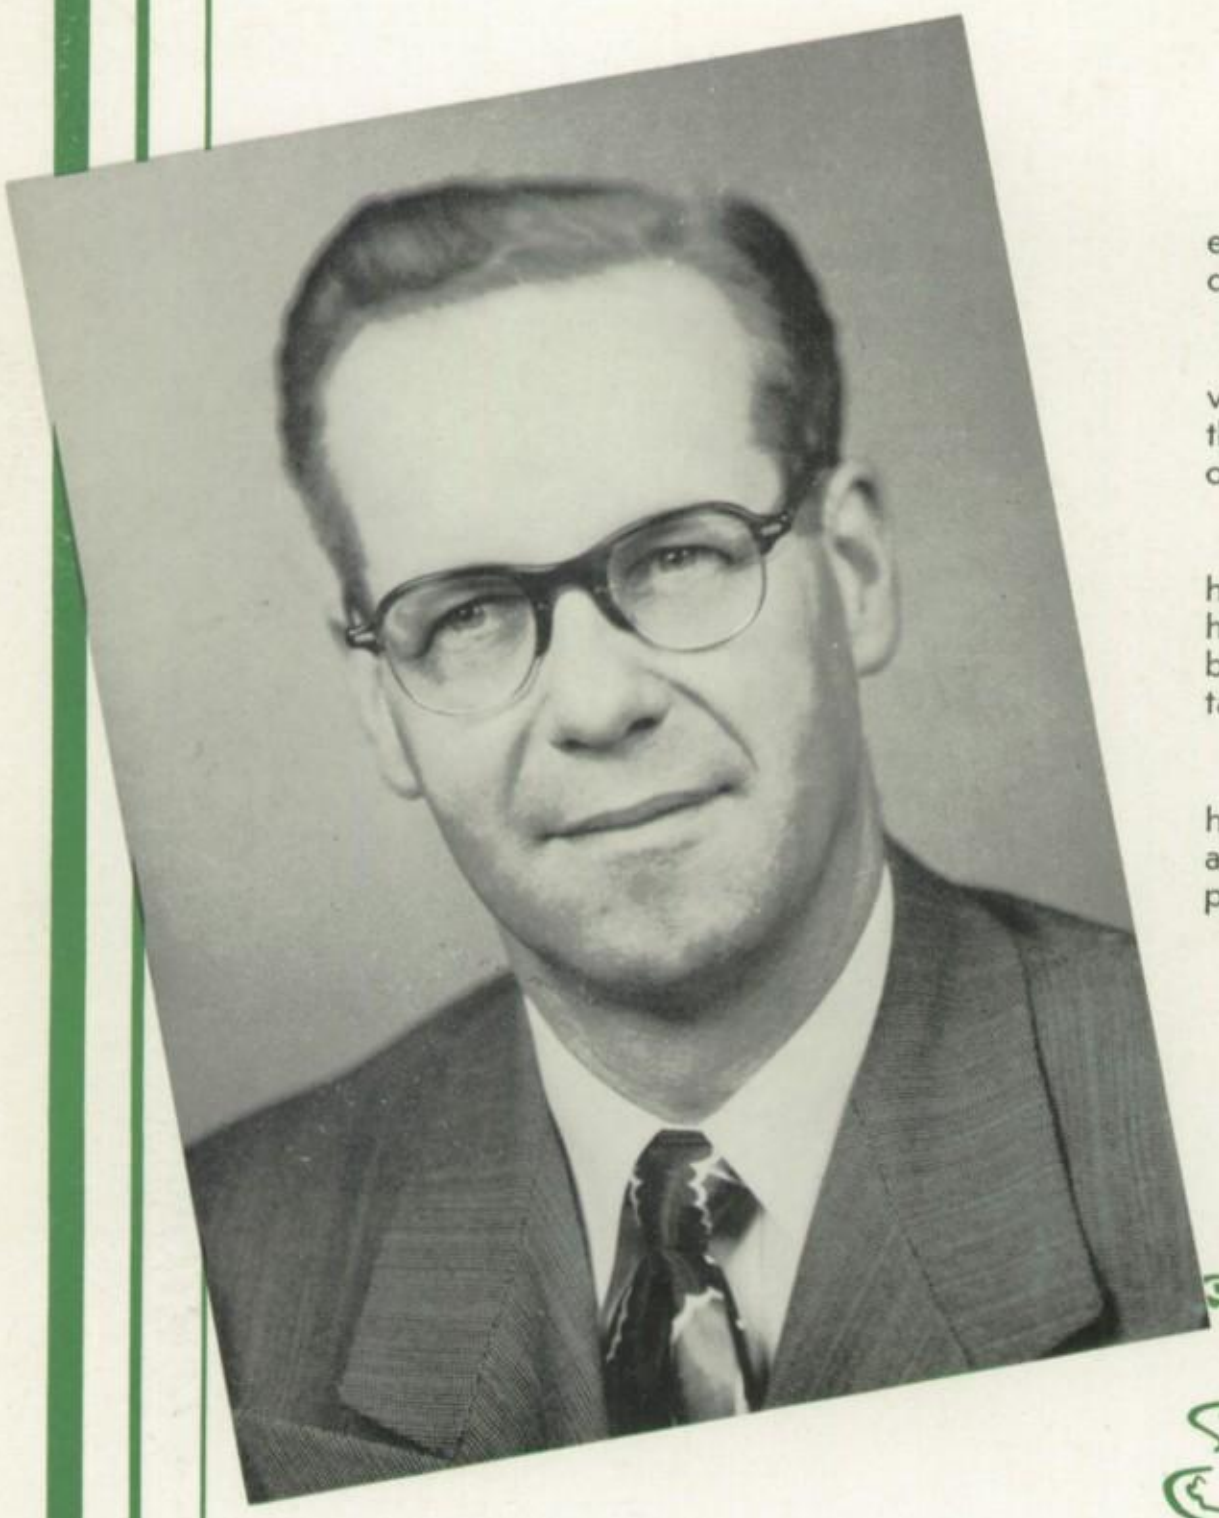
We Dedicate



To Cleston H. Rigby, scholar, teacher, artist, and friend we wish to dedicate this, the 1952 Provost.

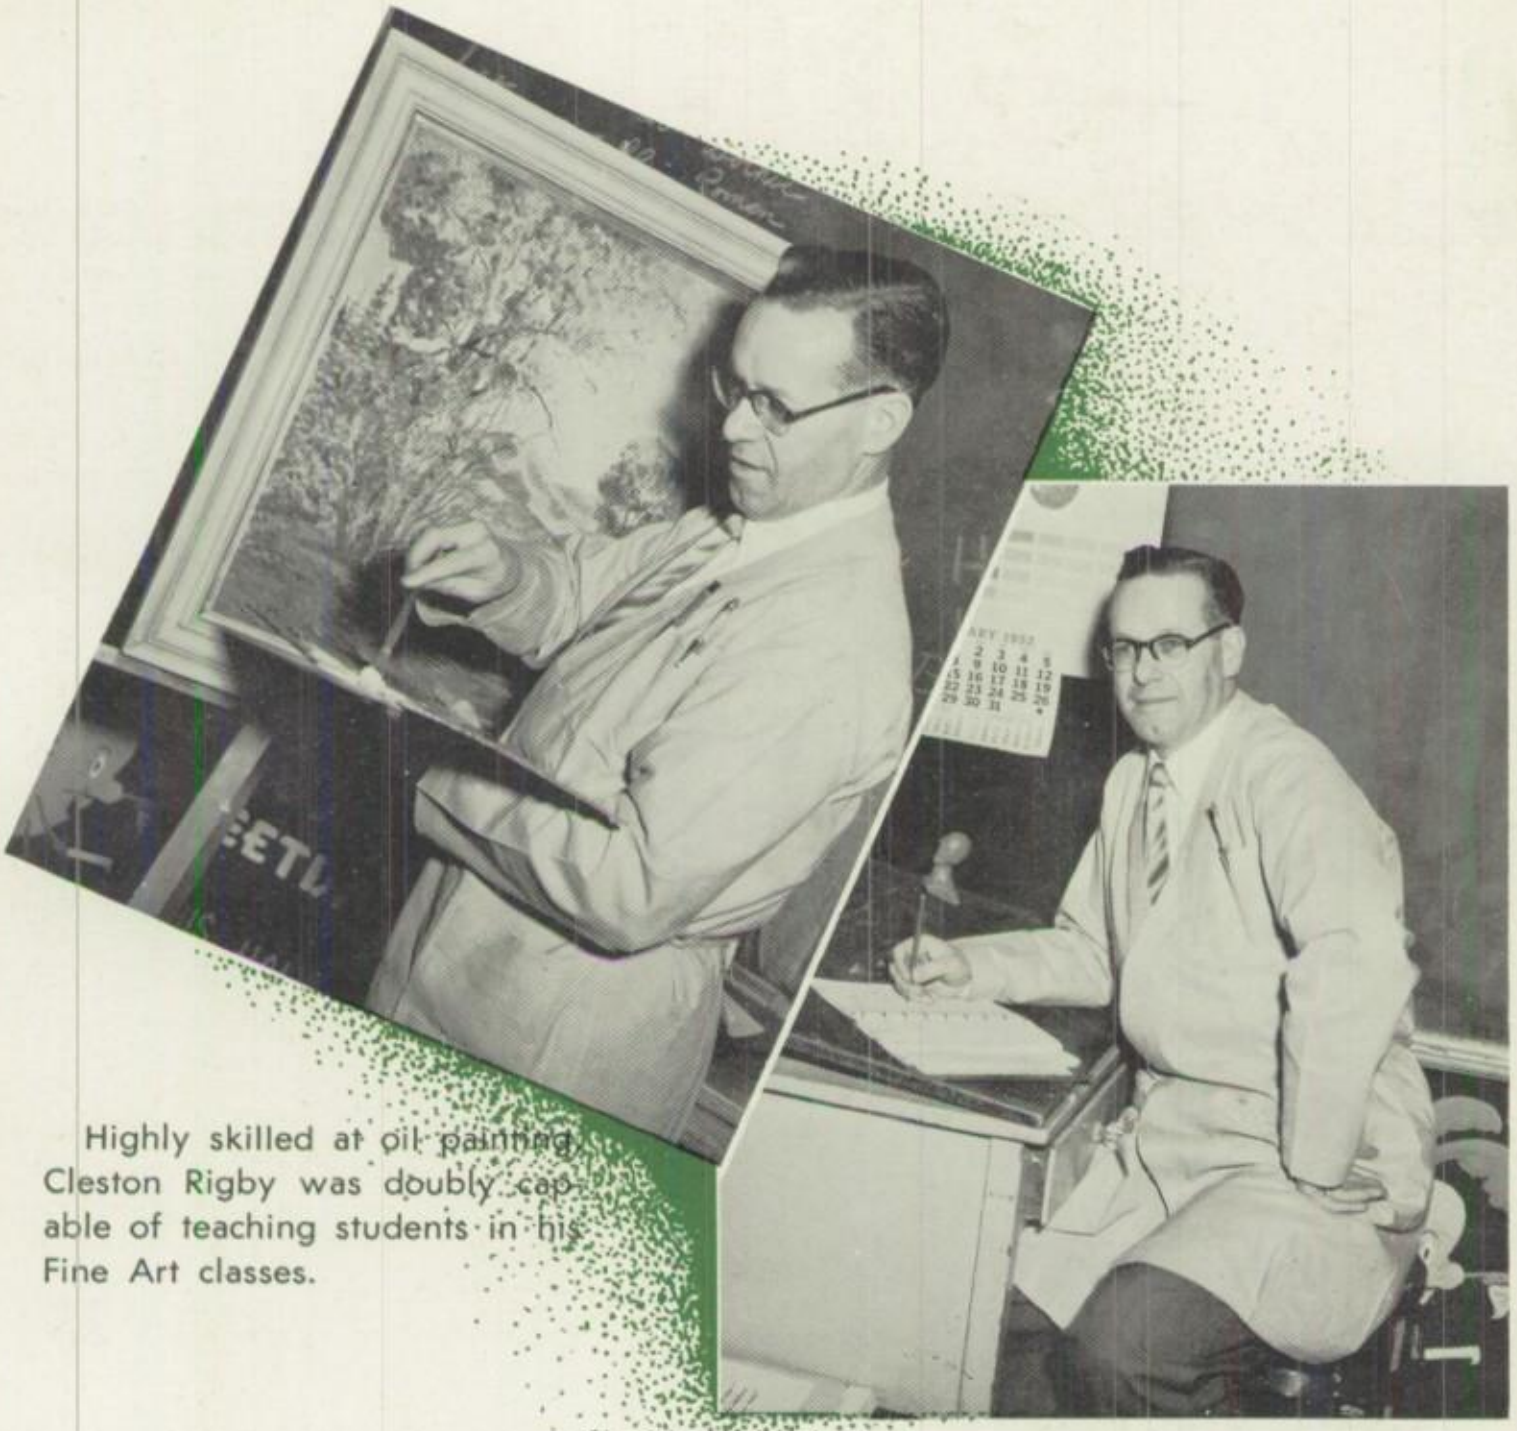
Through the years he has supervised the creation of the yearbooks that have become so much a part of our high school memories.

From his skillful hands and mind have come masterpieces of art, and his experience and guidance have brought forth from hidden places the talents of those he instructed.

Mr. Rigby has gained a place in the hearts of all his students. It is with appreciation and respect that we present this book to him.

The helping hand which Mr. Rigby gave Dell Timpson was typical of that given Commercial Art classes.

This Book To . . .

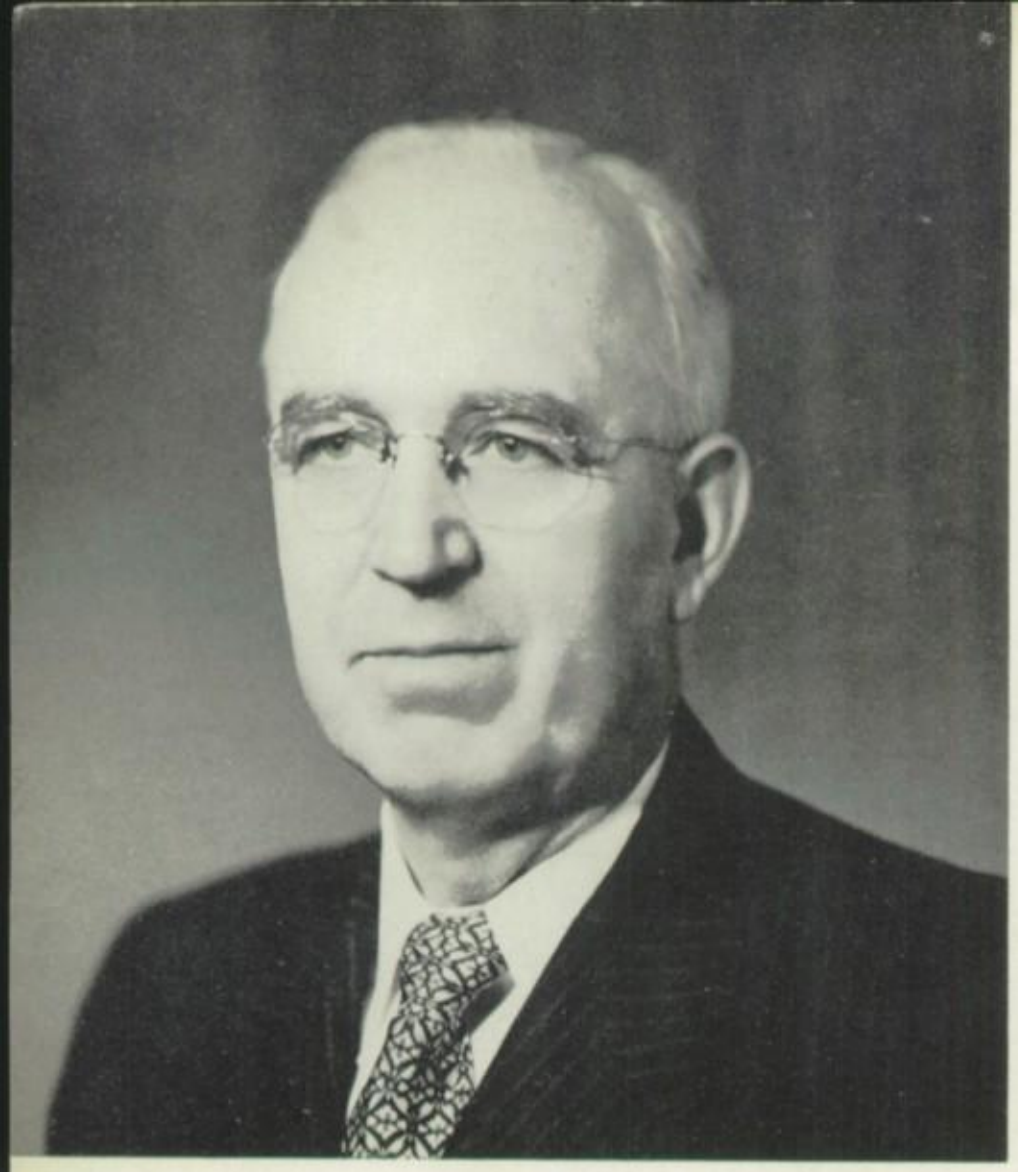


Highly skilled at oil painting, Cleston Rigby was doubly capable of teaching students in his Fine Art classes.

Keeping a record of attendance and making out grades of students was only a minor part of Cleston Rigby's art class routine.

Mr. Rigby's Fine Art students received training in chalk, charcoal, pencil, water color, and oils.

Harold Graehl and Sybil Clarke sought their adviser's help on many problems that arose in the publication of the yearbook.



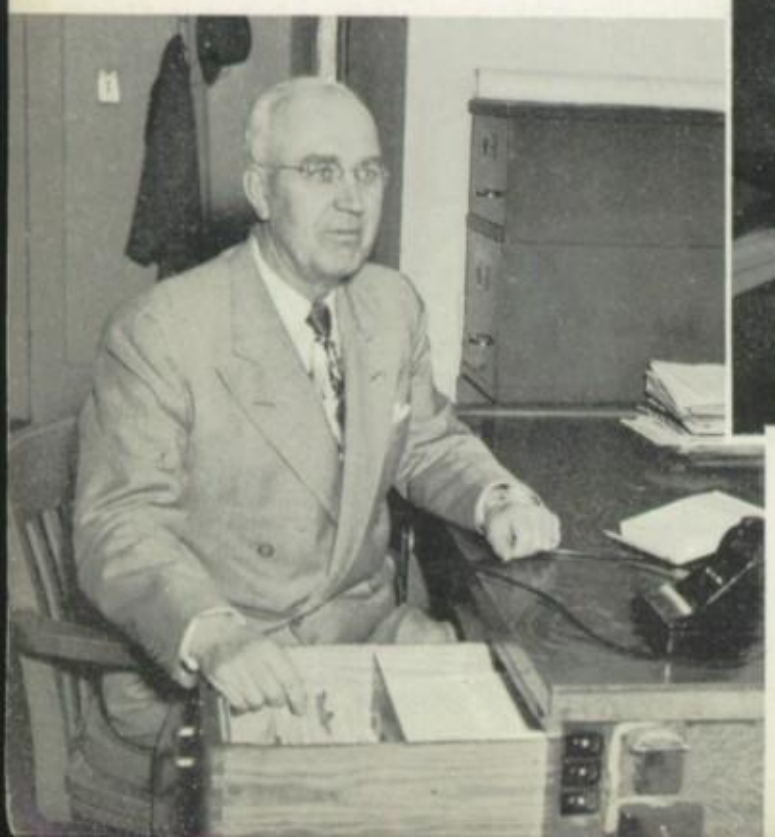
Our Administrative

Happy days come and go. For you seniors this school year will terminate what we hope will be the days and nights of one of life's most delightful segments. Good luck and happy going onward. To the juniors and sophomores this will be a mile-post — a standard of measure. Use it as you look in both directions. Profit by the past and anticipate and give much of your best in the years ahead.

Cordially,
J. C. MOFFITT
Superintendent

Literature played an important part in Dr. Moffitt's well filled schedule.

Superintendent J. C. Moffitt's desk was chuck full of administrative business.



Heads . . .

D. V. Tregeagle found the brighter side of a permanent cord.

Much of the principal's official business was carried by telephone wires.

As the sharp distinct patterns of your high school activities of the present fade into indistinct memories of the future, may the pages of this yearbook help you to recall the many pleasant experiences of this year at Provo High.

And may the enjoyment of reviewing the yearbook grow in meaning for you as have the fairy stories and the tales of the ancient Arabian Nights you knew so well as a young person.

May your future days be happy ones based upon solid foundations of abilities to live well with others. Carry on with success your fine ideals and dreams with which your high school days were filled.

Sincerely,

D. V. TREGEAGLE

Principal

LaPearl Roberts, June Peterson, Ellen Rowberry, Pauline Thorne, and Violet Rassmusson worked with Amy Taylor, district lunch supervisor, to prepare taste-tempting meals.

Moroni Cottam, J. O. Garrett, and Glen Kirkwood kept our campus in tip-top condition.

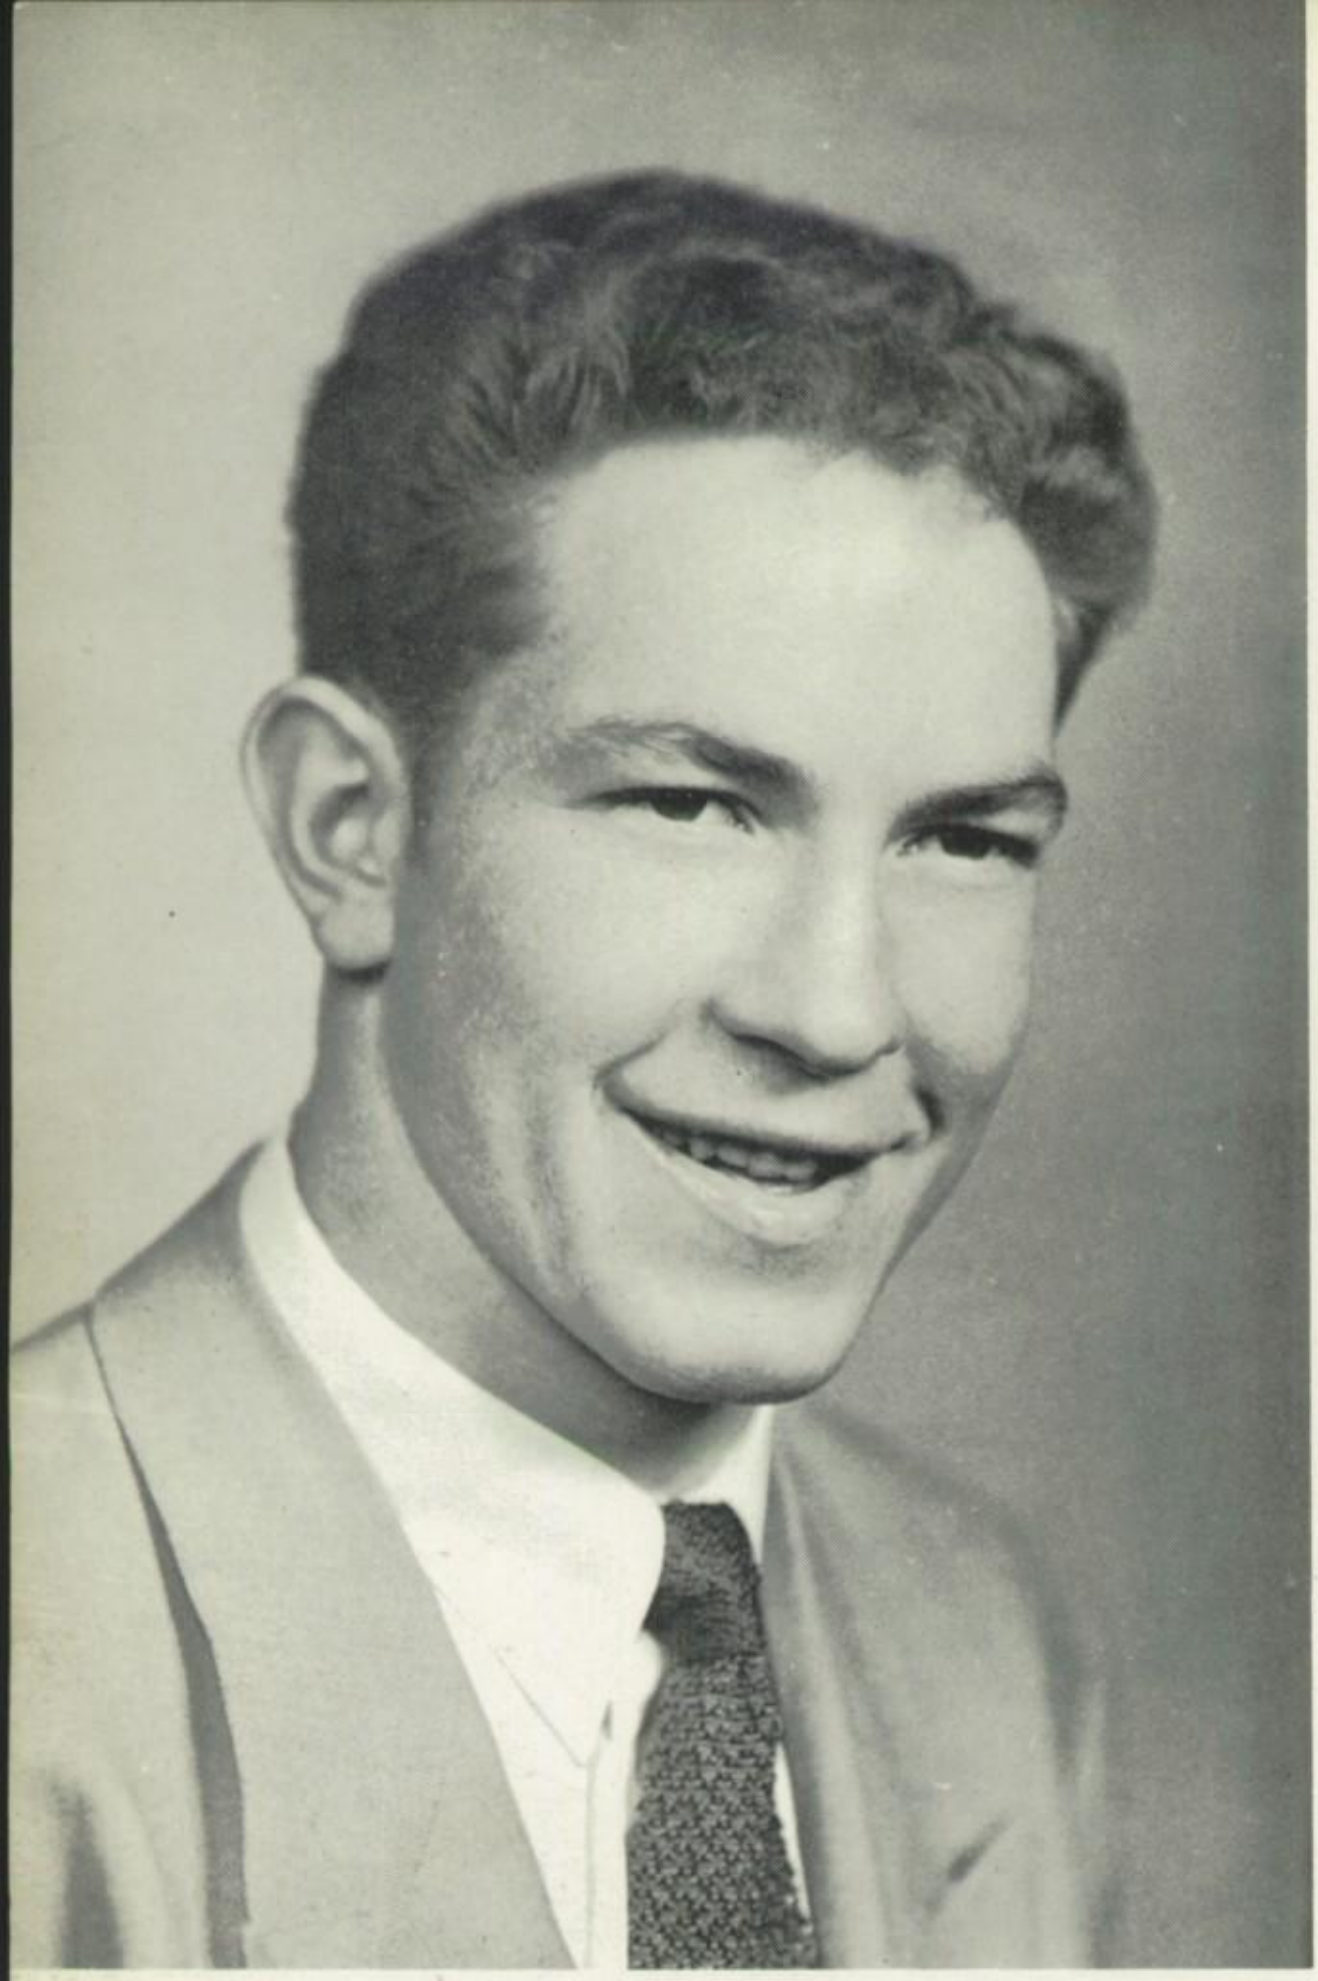
Dean of Boys Sherman W. Wing took care of many duties other than those assigned to him.

Dean of Girls Libbie C. Hayward guided and counseled girls on our campus.

Anna Lou Jones answered countless questions for inquisitive students along with her regular secretarial duties.

Dr. Loyd C. Whitlock, Student Coordinator, was a friend and invaluable counselor to all students.

Justin Winkler filled the position of Superintendent of Buildings for Provo City District.



Reigning as supreme Caliph over our vast domain was Dave Lewis, Student Body President.

Dave, known far and wide as "Skeeter", showed his superiority in football, basketball, tennis, and baseball as well as in leading students of Provo High School. All three years spent at PHS he could be seen playing his best in each of these sports. His senior year found him one of the co-captains of both the football and basketball teams.

Dave and our other three student body officers worked diligently with the Executive Council, Legislative Council, and Faculty to bring our students all the activities that made the 1951-52 year at Provo High School one to be remembered.

President David Lewis

Our friendly capable leaders . . .

Vice President Don Peay

Secretary Diane Ahlander

Business Manager Gene Lamb

Acting as Chairman of the Executive Council, taking care of financial matters, and keeping school records in order were the jobs of Don Peay, Vice President, Diane Ahlander, Secretary, and Gene Lamb, Business Manager.

These students carried out the duties assigned to them in an efficient, well planned way. They lived up completely to the confidence placed in them by students.

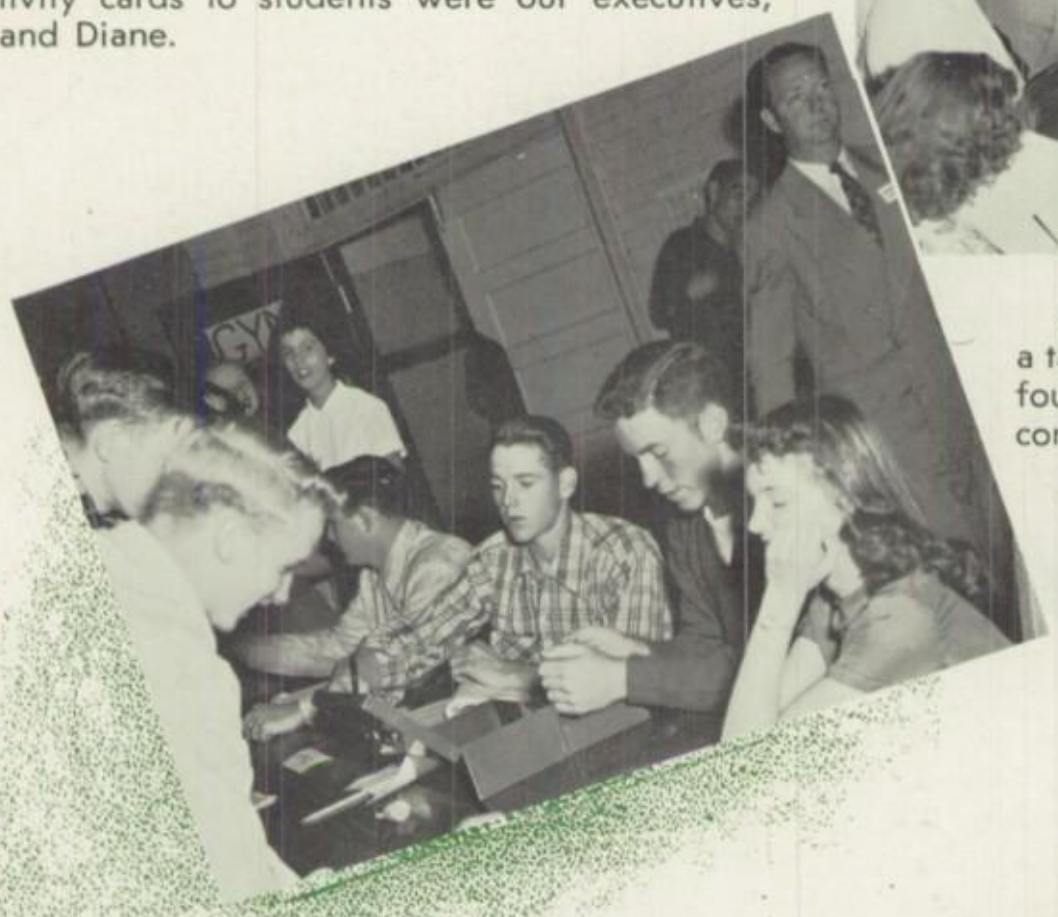
The Legislative Council composed our law-making body. First row: Weston Thatcher, Dave Lewis, Don Peay, Frank Madsen, Stan Taylor, Karen Christenson, Gloria Paramore, Joan Madsen. Second row: Evelyn Barker, RaNae Green, Marilyn Foutz, Gene Lamb, Sybil Clarke, Diane Ahlander, Lois Klein, Nephi Patton. Third row: Jim Penrod, Kenneth Jackson, Dean Roberts, Harold Graehl, Sharon Brian, Mary Carol Wayman, Maguerite Madsen, Marjorie Yarroll, Margo Boswell. Fourth row: Deb Tregeagle, Don Lord, Merlin Anderson, John Thomas, Bill Lewis, David Mitchell, Carma Taylor, Janet Kenner, Joan Van Dyke, Pauline Paramore. Fifth row: Evan Golding, Mary Carol Hedquist, JoAnne Littlefield, Jerry Jensen, Virginia Ritchie, Donna Thurgood, Norma Peay, Joyce Taylor, Leona Aston, Norma Burnside. Sixth row: Dale Olsen, John Belmont, Jeanene Parker, Lenadra McKell, David Mitchell, David McEwan, Shirley Wilson, Blaine Conk, Eugene King, Evan Taylor, Carol Ann Maxfield, Nile Jensen, Annette Newman.

Margaret Hansen added Margurete Madsen's and Sharron Brian's names to her list of gym students.

In a line that never seemed to end, students waited impatiently to be issued their lockers.

Our law making Bodies

Busy issuing activity cards to students were our executives, Don, Gene, Dave, and Diane.



Pre-school registrations were a task for green sophomores who found high school a new and confusing experience.

Heading our school government was the Executive Council. First row: Gene Lamb, Diane Ahlander, Dave Lewis, Don Peay. Second row: Principal Deb Tregeagle, Lois Klein, Nephi Patton, Jeanene Parker, Stan Taylor, Joan Madsen, Frank Madsen, Sybil Clarke.

Classes . . .

Lenadra McKell

Above: Lenadra McKell, calm, capable, and captivating, filled the position of Senior Vice President.

Stan Taylor

Above: Diligent, dependable, decisive Stan Taylor worked as Senior President to produce a year of fun for the entire class.

yearbook brings back Senior memories

From the looks of it, Loyce Nelson and possibly her brand new diamond was the topic of conversation between Karl Wood and Stan Taylor.

Frank Madsen Jay Schoppmann Joyce Taylor

President Frank Madsen, friendly favorite of the scholars, led the Junior Class through a successful year of fun and interest.

Congenial counselor of the Juniors was Vice President Jay Schoppman.

Pretty, poised, perservering Joyce Taylor was secretarial leader of this industrious threesome.

Lower left: Organizing affairs for the Junior Red Cross were John Thomas, Karma Hunter, Sybil Clarke, Annette Newman, and Shirley Mecham. Bert Asay's American Problems class assisted the committee.

Lower right: Dell Timpson and Harold Graehl worked on one of their many posters which were used to advertise forthcoming events at PHS.

Gail Wayman, Gordon Nelson, Gilbert Olsen, Mary Carol Hedquist, Sally Tueller, and Larry Farnsworth, committee members for the polio drive, strove to get every student to contribute to this worthy cause.

Committees . . .

The Cogs in the Wheel

Heralding good will and spurring on movements toward a better realm were the councils chosen from various home rooms.

The American Problems Class led the Red Cross Drive and the School Spirit Campaign.

Reorganizing the lunch line and activating a response toward the March of Dimes was Sherman Wing's first period English class.

Contributing time and effort were the Retail Merchandising class, who took charge of various commercial activities, and Mr. Rigby's Commercial Art students who furnished posters in advertisement of coming events.

Helen Scott and Cozette Stewart purchased treats from Mary T. Broadbent while Joyce Smith and Clyde Lassen looked on.

Sherman Wing's first period English class spearheaded the movement toward a more efficient, faster-moving lunch program. Acting as a committee for the class were Nile Jensen, Marilyn Foutz, Pauline Loy, Eugene King, and Lenadra McKell.

As beautiful as a heavenly chorus, the voices of the A Cappella Choir resounded with rich, vibrant tones in their concerts. Members were, first row: John Belmont, Gary Stout, Howard Johnson, Theodore Bills, Jimmy Leonard, Ray Singleton, Bill Elasberry. Second row: Phil Fisher, Hal Holland, Dan Nisonger, Wayne Keith, Dave Lewis, Diane Nielson, Leah Crowley. Third row: Mark Leftwich, Dan Webb, Jay Beal, Dean Roberts, Don Peay, Bob Jorgenson, Jo Ann Gay, Helen Keith, Shirley Hanson. Fourth row: Evelyn Barker, JoAnn Littlefield, Anna Salerno, Shirley Wilson, Swen Neilsen, Jay Goold, Gerald Peterson. Clark Jolley, Marlene Duke, Jeanene Parker, Carol Lewis. Fifth row: Diane Ahlander, Anne Cullimore, JoAnn Green, Carol Fulkerson, Byron Davenport, Charles Pope, Eugene King, Sally Tueller, Colleen Lawrence, Marilyn Worsley, Marilyn Prow. Sixth row: Vicki Brady, Margie Bird, Bonnie Wilson, Sharon Brian, Toni Madsen, Betty Sardoni, John Clark, Kay Swenson, Jackie Berry, Gwila Conrad, Melba Rose, Charlene Roberts. Seventh row: Priscilla Boswell, Jeanne Loveless, Renee Vacher, Karen Christensen, Marilyn Ball, John Dolinar, Glen Van Wagenen, Lynn Smith, Vernita Durrant, Donna Thurgood, Norma Peay, Janet Gammon. Absent when the picture was taken were: Joyce Hassenfritz, Phyllis Rees, Carol Khuni, Cozette Stewart, Darcy Dove, Donna Brown, Albert Allman, and Joyce Hendricksen.

A Cappella . . .

Voices Swell in Harmonious Ecstasy

The Madrigals were a group of highly trained singers who specialized in songs of adventure and love from the 16th century. This class provided many hours of learning and enjoyment for its members.

Top: Melodious as the song of the nightingale were the warblings of Bob Jorgenson, Wayne Keith, Colleen Lawrence, and Dan Nisonger, soloists. Watching the proceedings was Eugene King, A Cappella president. Marion Maynard accompanied the group.

Below: "Sing, Sing, Sing" was the motto of Ann Shipley, Janet Beck, Mary Helen Frampton, Veloy Washburn, LaDawn Noble, and Bonnie Barker, girls' sextette. On many occasions these girls joined together to sing dreamy melodies.

Lifting their voices in harmony with the desert winds, the Girls' Concert Chorus serenaded slave and sultan alike. Lovely tones rang through the courtyard as on their lips the songs sprang to life, weaving a magical web of melody.

Voice of the Wind

From arias to marches, from classicals to pep songs, our musicians mastered them all. Concerts, parades, and playing at football and basketball games made up the agenda for band members. These musicians, showing versatile ability, participated in each activity.

Mellow tones were created by Dorothy Davis, Richard Hansen, Gordan Murdock, and Robert Vernon, members of the clarinet quartet.

Lively marches as well as symphony selections were rendered at several band concerts by band members. First row: Jane Clyde, Dorothy Davis, Kenneth Littlefield, Jackie Gatenby, Jack Clarkson Sharlene Wilcox, Jill Clarke, Eldon Guymon, Don-Etta Christensen. Second row: Richard Hansen, Robert Vernon, Jeri Deane Tregeagle, Gene Hansgen, Richard Olsen, Karla Dawn Cheney, Howard Johnson, Gene Jensen, Carole Trimble, Lamont Tyler, Joe Done, Ronald Morain, Ouida Goad, Gordan Murdock, Paul Groesbeck, Jack Asay, David Stone, Harold Swenson, Glen McClain. Third row: George King, Neva Sorensen, Lewis Edwards, Stan Taylor, Mont Ford, Dick Anderson, Mitchel Carter, Gene Nelson, Gary Stout, Kenneth Clegg, Lloyd Prestwich, Douglas Gordon, Bob Allshouse, Claude Snow, Tom Luce, Jan Bee, Max Lund, Robert Strang, Ronald Bailie, Mark Taylor, Roger Childs, Richard Young. Fourth row: Mark Sunday, Hal Holland, David Worthen, Dennis White, Melvin Merrell, Frank Ammons, Eugene Anderson, Rex Sutherland, conductor. Absent when the picture was taken were Jess Hollerman, Donna Rae Nelson, Arlen Butler, Donald Field.

Because of their skill in playing their particular instruments, Dorothy Davis, Stan Taylor, Jackie Gatenby, Karla Dawn Cheney, and Jane Clyde were chosen to be band soloists.

Joe Done, Jane Clyde, Karla Dawn Cheney and Jackie Gatenby, woodwind quartet, prepared to captivate another audience with their delightful music.

When the orchestra needed someone to play a particular passage or a solo number they called on Jimmie Farmer, Stan Taylor, Karla Dawn Cheney, or Jane Clyde — soloists of the group, to accomplish the feat.

As the flute player charmed the cobra with his rhythmic swaying, the orchestra charmed our merchants with beautiful music. Suites and overtures lent cultural uplift to our palace and gave many hours of entertainment for participants and listeners alike.

Music swelled in harmonious ecstasy whenever orchestra students performed for school or public functions. Shown on one such occasion were, First row: Shirley June Hanson, Betty Sardoni, Diane Smith, Dick Dolinar, Joan McCall, Marilyn Myrup, Jimmie Farmer. Second row: David Mitchell, Catherine Abbott, Mary Alice Young, Alaire Buttle, Bill Hoeft, Sterling Lichfield, Antoine Harris, Arthur Johnson, Dixie Pulsipher, Beverly Walker, Margaret Salerno, Joyce Hassenfritz. Third row: Anna Salerno, Ann Jones, Donna Abbott, Donna Rae Nelson, Jackie Gatenby, Clothield Newren, Jane Clyde. Fourth row: Lisa Ann Coon, Nancy Ladle, Portia Bingham, Mark Sunday, Hal Holland, John Thomas, Mary Jo Paramore, Howard Johnson, J. G. Hilgendorff, conductor; Karla Dawn Cheney, Stan Taylor, Bob Jorgensen, Lowry Harris, Paul Dalebout, Howard Reed, Raymond Hafen, Paul Christensen, Dennis White. Mont Ford, Richard Young, Lee Young, Robert Bickerstaff, Christa Binder, Joe Done, and Michael Hinckley were absent when the picture was taken.

Shirley June Hanson, Betty Sardoni, Marilyn Myrup and Jimmie Farmer, members of the string quartette, provided musical entertainment for many social functions at P.H.S.

Sweet strains of music lifted in harmony when the string trio — Margaret Salerno, Mary Jo Paramore, and Anna Salerno — participated on musical programs.

Merchants of the Sultan

Bargaining was one thing at which our fellow Arabs were talented, but best suited were the Retail Merchandising students. They not only learned the art of getting the best price for each article, but also learned how to wrap the article in the most attractive way.

Down through the sands of time many have questioned the why's and the why-not's of historical figures and their history-making decisions. Social Science classes attempted to arrive at an answer to these questions and thus enlighten the minds of our knowledge-seeking Arabs. Questions like "What is the overall policy of the United Nations?" kept instructors busy and students thinking.

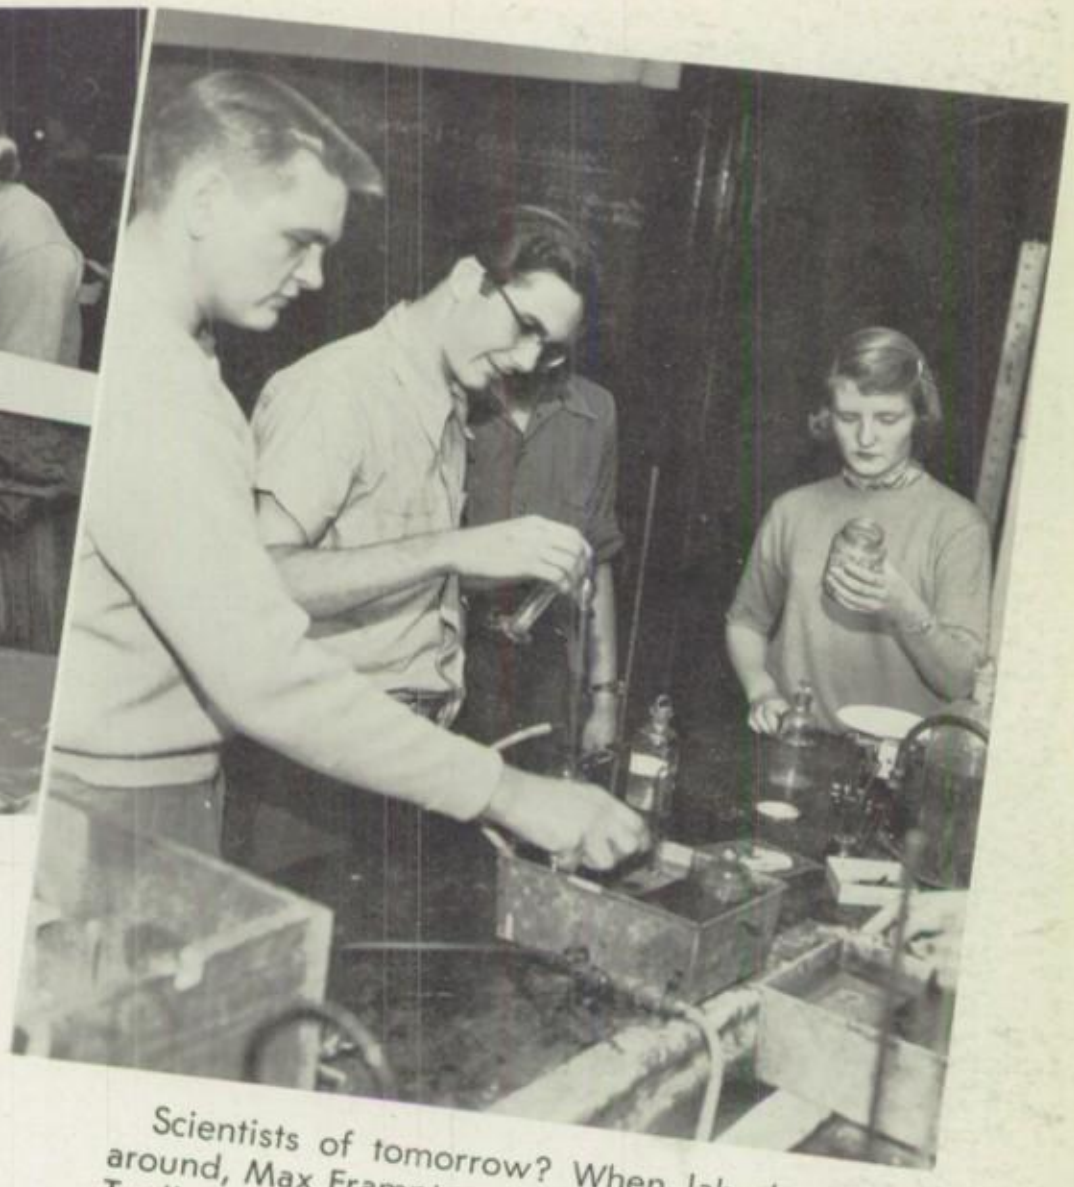
World History students Theodore Bills, Sherry Christiansen, Carolyn Casper, Jerry Harris, Elaine Herman, and Cherie Hutchison located the various countries about which they had been studying.

Judging by the expressions on their faces, Biology students LaRene Wright, Lynette Anderson, and Mary Ann Harding must have seen something a bit peculiar in the microscope.



Scientists of tomorrow? When lab day rolled around, Max Frampton, Mitchell Carter, and Sally Tueller proved they knew what chemistry was all about.

Countless sparks were sent towards the ceiling, multi-colored puffs of smoke poured out the windows, and frightened Arabs scampered in all directions. The Science department of our realm was busy at work. What with test tubes, pickled reptiles, and stuffed animals our potential scientists were often snowed under with work and perplexing problems.

Patient counselors labored daily to help their students master the art of writing and speaking correctly. Each day brought a new and baffling rule to add to the bewilderment of the scholars. No doubt they often wished for a magic lamp to consult when it came to gerunds, dangling participles, and diagraming. Whether by study or osmosis students managed to absorb most of the study matter their tutors presented to them.

As literature was an essential part of the English Department, a day each week was given over to it. Frank Madsen, Bonnie Beck, Eloise Aitken, and Robert Durfey selected books on such an occasion.

Using the dictionary as a guide, Bruce Cloward, Audrea Gately, and Robert Keifer argued over the correct pronunciation of a word.

Masters of the Old, Old Arts

Whether riding the sands of the desert or resting in a nearby oasis, our fellow Arabians provided a sight that tempted the paint brushes of more than one student of Fine Art.

Commercial Art classes kept our tribes in the know about current events by placing colorful posters in the halls.

Those who studied Applied Art kept their individual tents in fine condition with lamps and tables they had made.

Below right: Adding delicate overtones to make their paintings complete were Helen Scott and Gloria Nuttall. Working at the table were Mary Ammons, Norma Thorne, Janise Vincent, Anita Groneman, and Pat Snow.

Lower: Carol Fulkerson, Gail Wayman, Shirley Waisner, and Vernita Durrant exhibited the finished product of their course in home canning.

Homemaking

The Spoon and the Needle

Nimble fingers flew to and fro as the maidens of the palace skillfully fashioned robes of brocade and velvet to wear on special occasions. At the same time many young girls tried daily to learn the secrets in the preparation of rare and tasty delicacies that would tease the appetite of a young man.

Homeliving

And They All Lived Happily Ever After

Never let it be said that the girls who left the palace to start homes of their own went unprepared. The Homeliving Department did a thorough job of teaching seniors the secrets of a successful domestic life.

Budgeting, along with a course on the basic home nursing principles, taught the girls some of the essentials every prospective homemaker should know.

Top: It took a lot of figuring to get account books balanced. Mary Passarella, Marilyn Ball, Catherine Abbott, and Janise Vincent concentrated on making their monthly expenditures balance with their income.

Center: Jackie Berry used an oversized thermometer to show Corrine Herman, Frances Perteson, and Louise Hansen the proper procedure for reading a clinical thermometer. Included in the lesson was the importance of the cleanliness of all equipment.

Bottom: Use soap, water, and friction were the directions for washing hands during home nursing classes. Jeanne Loveless, Barbara Moore, Priscilla Boswell, Carol Fulkerson, Vernita Durrant, and Gail Wayman found it effective.

Accentuating grace, coordination, and good sportsmanship, the Girls' Physical Education Department carried out a successful program for the year.

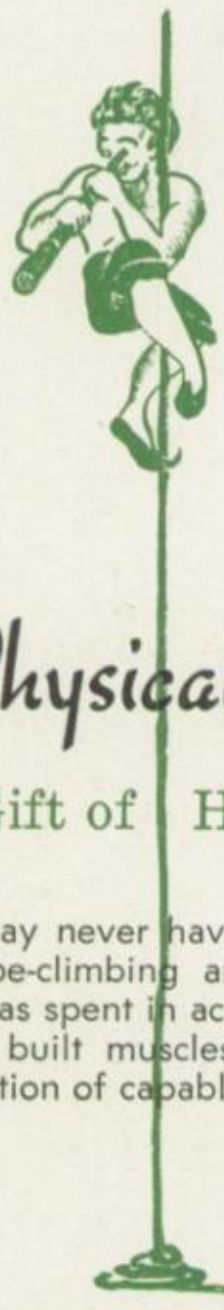
Our Arabian dancing girls worked to perfect routines for the annual dance review presented to the inhabitants of the palace.

Basketball, softball, soccer, and volleyball were but a few of the athletics in which the girls participated.

A few girls from the PHS harem of lovely beauties strove to develop the grace and flowing rhythm so necessary in dancing.

Vigorous activity was on display daily in the Girls' Gym. Here a few girls demonstrated their skill during a rousing game of volleyball.

A volleyball team tried hard to score a point against their opponents.



Boys' Physical Education

The Gift of Hercules

Although PHS boys may never have the strength of a genii or the agility of an Indian rope-climbing artist, they did mighty well for themselves. Each day was spent in acquiring the skill it takes to excell in all sports. The boys built muscles and worked for top physical condition under the direction of capable instructors.

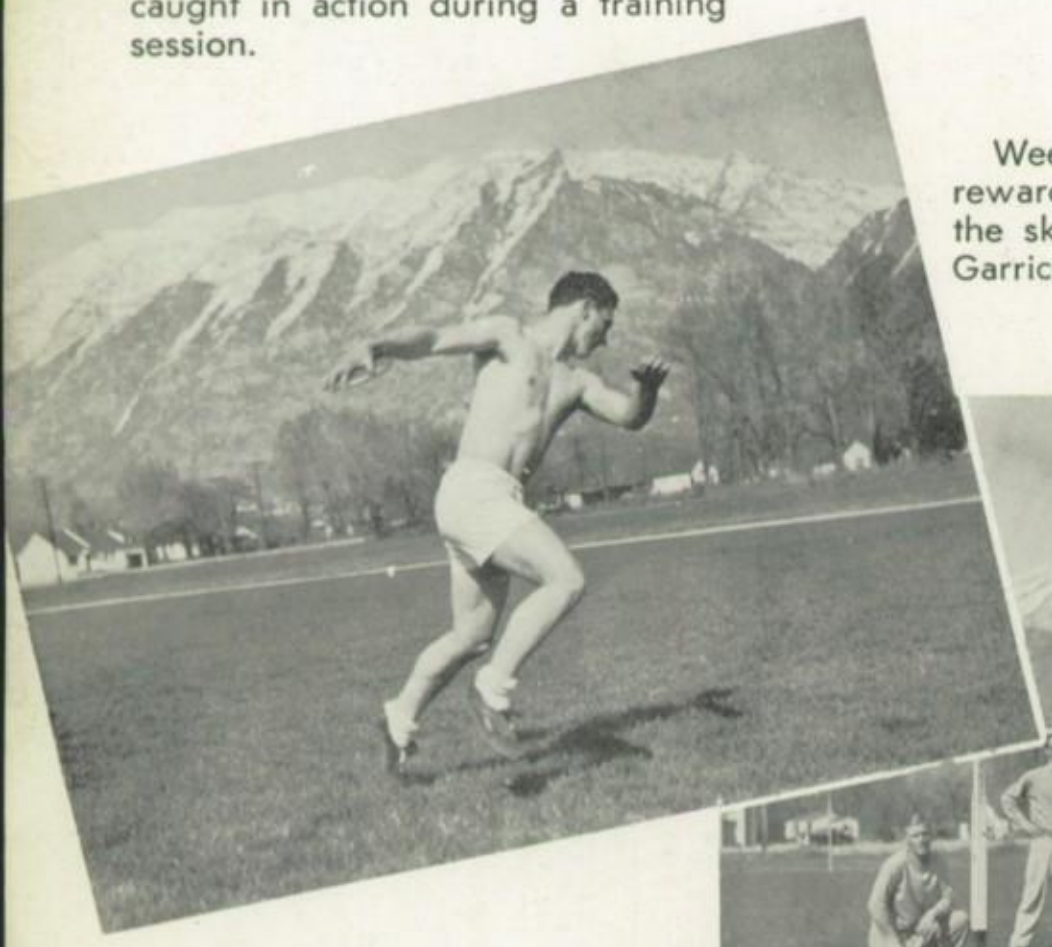
Trackmen worked out on the cinders and sawdust to perfect their timing and coordination in preparation for the state, regional and invitational track meets. The thinclads threw the discus, shotput, and javelin, and rose to new heights in the pole vaulting and high jump events.

Discus Thrower Gilbert Olsen was caught in action during a training session.



Weeks of rigid training were rewarded by the attainment of the skills of high jumping. Ilyn Garrick demonstrated his ability.

It tock Ronald Mooney many hours of exhilarating workouts to be able to throw the javelin with accuracy and grace.

Tennis . . .

Arlyn Sperry, Donald Lord, Max Frampton and Bob Blackley, Provo netters, were well supplied with the agility and fleetness necessary to win their tennis matches. Gary Madsen, another tenniseer, was absent when picture was taken.

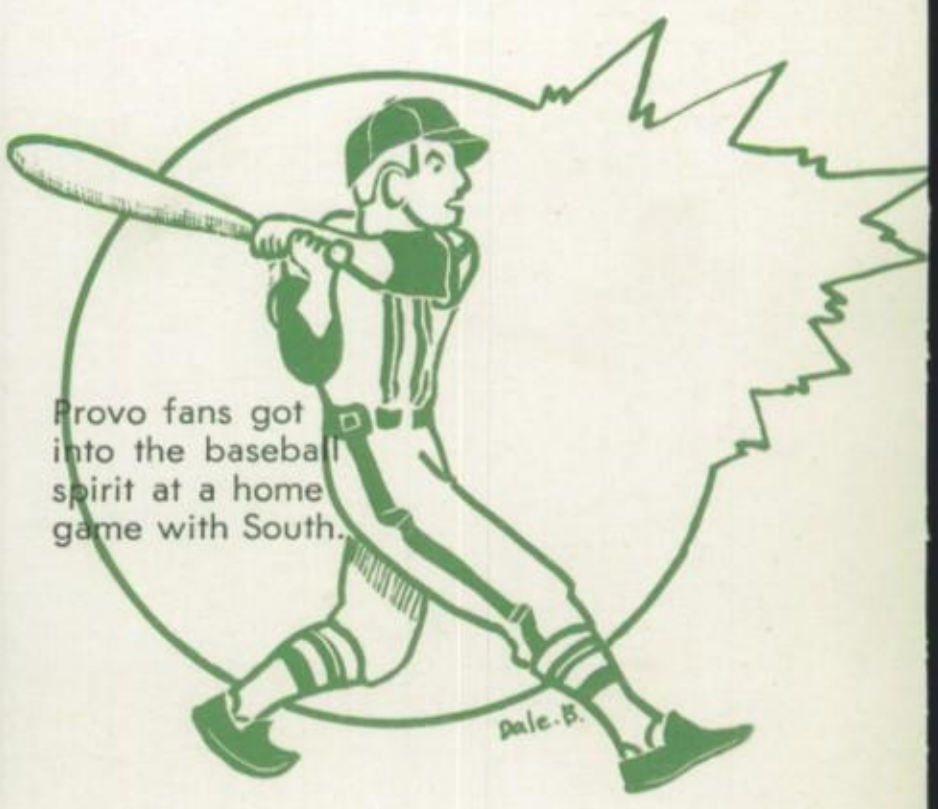
Wayne Keith, Kay Marrit, and Gary Rasmussen jumped the hurdles with the effortless ease that comes with daily practice.

With coordination of mind and body working together, Gary Rasmussen leaped through the air with dexterity and precision.

The dugout was the home of the Provo sluggers during each baseball game.

Dell Timpson smashed a double to left field that brought a man in to score.

Provo fans got into the baseball spirit at a home game with South.



Baseball . . . Batter up

Baseball sluggers were, first row: Kay Lewis, Charles Pope, Bob Jorgensen, Dell Timpson, Melvyn Thompson, Don Cox, Kenneth Jackson, Nephi Patton. Second row: Glendon Hatch, Wendell Miller, Gilbert Olsen, Bob Blackley, Perry Calder, Arlyn Sperry, Neb Miller, Paul Kitchen, Ronald Anderson. Third row: Mike Andrews, Paul Dalebout, Jess Hollerman, Kerry Campbell, Russell Jones, Bill Ewell, Dale Lewis, Ed Tangren, Coach Randy Clark.

Provo High baseball sluggers prepared themselves for competition in league play as Coach Randy Clark spent many hours drilling his "big nine" on the hows and whys of baseball. Hits, runs, and homers were the reward of the many weeks of strenuous spring training.

Sweetheart Ball

Cupid reigned supreme

Reigning as Sweetheart Queen was Leona Aston, center, with royal attendants: Carla Dawn Cheny, Colleen Lawrence, Ina Wolsey, and Jeanene Parker.

Cupid and his arrow went to work and gathered a near record crowd at the Sweetheart Ball, which was held at the Social Hall on the BYU campus.

Bruce Riddle's band supplied the music as starry-eyed sweethearts danced their way through the evening.

Maidens of Provo High presented a dance review depicting "Our Heritage." Dances were woven around the past, present, and future.

Donna Rae Nelson, Pauline Paramore, and Pat Daniels were dancers in the Rise and Fall dance.

With the theme of "Sugar and Spice and Everything Nice" the Girls' Day assembly was built around the Petty Girl and an appropriate activity of each month of the year.

Girls' Day . . .

Everything Nice

The receiving line for the Mothers' and Daughters' Tea was composed of Afton Thompson, Wanda Scott, Margrett Hansen, Anna Taylor, Libby Hayward, Lois Klein, Ann Wood, and Marilyn Foutz.

Sally Bown, chairman of the Mothers' and Daughters' Tea, and Sybil Clarke, chairman of the Fashion Review, prepared a very entertaining afternoon for girls and their mothers.

Both the tea and the review were held in the afternoon, while boys enjoyed a holiday.

These five girls did an excellent job of serving those who attended the tea. They were: Mary Ann Harding, Floy Moody, Sally Bown, Sandy Gifford, and Marion Madsen.

JoAnn Gay captured the coveted title of Girls' Day Queen while Gloria James and Corrine Herman attended her.

Coeds took over and enjoyed a very successful day, under the general chairmanship of Lois Klein. Scene of the dance was at the LDS Stake House. The Sophomore Band supplied musical strains for girls and their partners.

Girls' Organization

Court Harem

Ann Wood, Lois Klein, and Janet Gammon, vice-president, president, and secretary of the Girls' Organization, worked diligently to plan entertaining activities for the enjoyment of girls.

Boys' Organization . . .

Sheiks of Araby

Clark Jolley, vice-president; Paul Kitchen, secretary; and Nephi Patton, president, carried out the executive duties of the Boys' Organization. Working as a team, they took charge of such events as the Boys' Jamboree and Boys' Day.

Acting in the capacity of Girls' Captains were, first row: Evelyn Barker, Gail Gray, Verla Crockett, Pauline Loy, Jackie Berry, Carol Lewis. Second row: Carole Jensen, Gloria James, Leah Crowley, Sally Bown, Sybil Clarke, Jo Ann Gay.

Junior

Juniors got a thrill that comes only once in a lifetime as they descended the stairs in the Junior Promenade.

Egyptian agriculture, religion, and culture were portrayed in pantomime and dance by the Juniors.

David Mitchell, Mary Lou Thorne, Janet Kenner, and Anne Cullimore, Junior Prom and assembly committee heads, spent extra time and effort to weave the activities around the theme of "Exotic Egypt."

Prom . . .

Exotic Egypt

A crowded ballroom, girls and boys attired in spring dress, and an Egyptian atmosphere combined to make the Junior Prom a dance to remember.

A scene in the court of an Egyptian pharoah was enacted by dancers, slaves, and harem girls.

During intermission dancers talked about Junior Day activities.

Lois Klein

Chosen to welcome old friends back to PHS was radiant Lois Klein. With a cheery hello for all, the vivacious, brown-eyed brunette reigned over Alumni Day.

Leona Aston

Charming Leona Aston was chosen as "Sweetheart of the School." With a friendly smile our sparkling cheerleader ruled over the Sweetheart Ball.

Jo Ann Gay

Presiding as queen over Girls' Day festivities was JoAnn Gay, a girl with a captivating personality and a winning smile.

Queens and Kings . . .

Elected nobility

An all-round sportsman, Nephi Patton was chosen by Provo High girls to reign as Preferred Man.

Gilbert Olsen, a handsome representative of the male population of the school, was honored as King of Boys' Day.

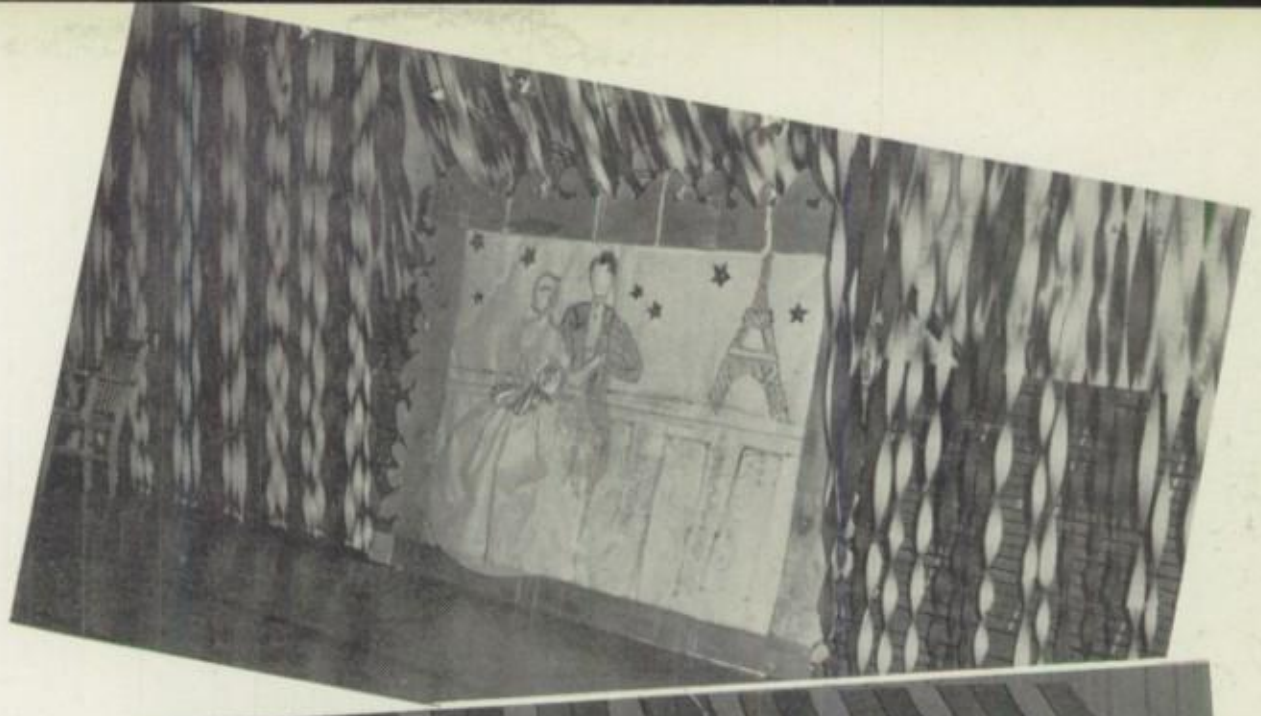
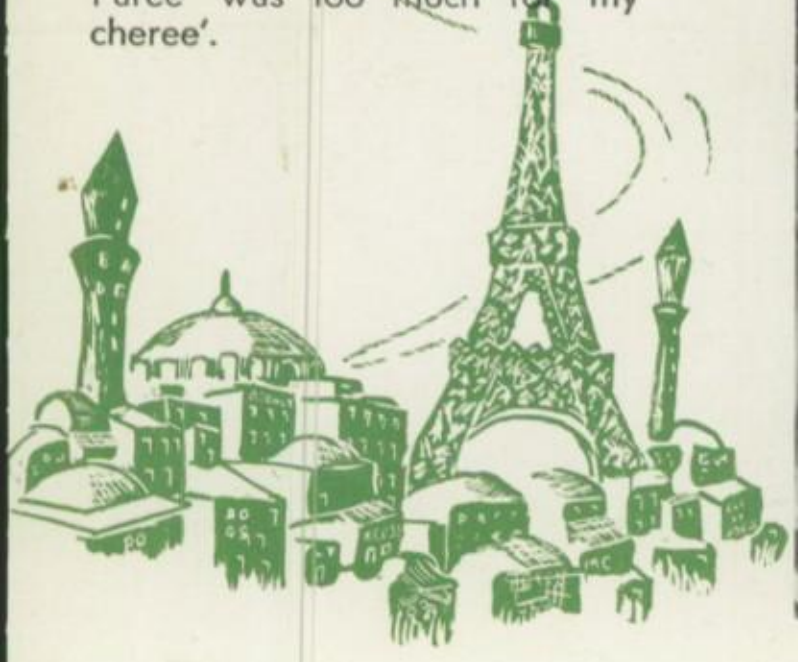
The mood of an evening in Paris was created by twinkling stars against a background of color and art.



An "American in Paris" was greeted by the laughter and gaiety of the Cafe Paree.

The city of enchantment with its beautiful women and soft lights, where people from many lands paused for a glimpse of gay Paris.

An evening, a dance, a silent breeze — and yet all is not well. Paree' was too much for my cheree'.



With the theme, "Turn Back the Hands of Time," the assembly cast portrayed teachers, friends and students of yester-year.

Homecoming

Remember Me

Happy in spite of losing the game, students danced to the music of Jan Bee's orchestra.

Pat Watts watched as Dale Olsen placed the crown on Alumni Queen Lois Klein. Attendants were Karen Christensen and Jo Ann Gay.

Alumnus Joe Weight, shot for a basket as Provo players watched poised for the rebound.

Kanteen

Interest was centered on the eight-ball. Pool, ping-pong, table games and other activities were open to Provo and B. Y. High students.

Celebrating a pre-season victory over Lincoln, students enjoyed a dance sponsored by the Teen Kanteen.

Busy students worked hard to complete the Kanteen float.

Sophomores portrayed their secret ambitions to the "Dream" theme. Their school hours were filled with thoughts of what they wanted most to be in life.

Day dreams ranged from leader of a name band to experiences in the army.

Boys Day

Something for the Boys

In the battle of size against number during the Boys' Jamboree, number won hands down.

During intermission at the Boys' Day Dance, Nephi Patton crowned Gilbert Olsen, King of Boys. He was announced winner during the Boys' Jamboree.

The Phi Gamma Psi, newly organized Senior girls' club, got well established this year. Their aim was to promote unity in the senior girls so that in years to come they could keep in contact with each other. Many informative lectures were enjoyed by the group. Their schedule also included an initiation banquet and the sponsoring of the Sweetheart Ball.

Palace Players Enchanted Us

"The Lost Elevator" provided the setting for a lover s' quarrel. The cast included Bill Lewis, George King, Dale Olsen, Hildred Neilsen, Marion Cluff, Nancy Jo. Harding, Bob Peay, Colleen Kitchen, Ronald Bailey, and Marilyn Halliday.

Two brothers who weren't on speaking terms provided the plot for this humorous tale. In a scene from the play were Ernest Tsalaky, Tom Walters, Pat Snow, John Farley. Anita Groneman completed the cast.

DAC players presented a play of the 1920's which involved a cursed necklace that was stolen to gain love. Louise Larsen, Georgia Herringer, Mary Lou Thorne, Juanita Madsen, and Eloise Aitken carried the dialogue.

Key Club

We're Here to Serve You

Murray, South, and Provo Key Clubs got together for an inter-club dance.

Members of the Key Club, a branch of the Provo Kiwanis Club and the service organization of the school, sold candy and ushered at home basketball games. Max Golightly

Wings of Morning

A dramatic atmosphere prevailed at the presentation of "Wings of the Morning", the first school play. Under the expert coaching of Director Max Golightly the students skillfully executed their parts. The action centered around a doctor who took a group of disillusioned people to his remote mountain estate to help them solve their problems through self-realization.

Head First

A delightful three-act comedy presented by first-rate performers kept the audience in a jovial mood from first curtain to last. The play was a farce woven around the hilarious antics of a college boy who, with a little persuasion, hypnotized nearly half of the cast.

Precision marchers were, first row: Norma Burnside, Verlene Brady, Sally Bown, Priscilla Boswell, Loyce Nelson, Colleen Lawrence. Second row: Marjorie Jones, Marjorie Bird, Louise Hansen, Edith Taylor, Sally Tueller, Lois Klein, Jeanene Parker. Absent when picture was taken were Lorna Boyns, Joyce Henrichsen.

Forty-eight maidens of the palace banded together to provide entertainment at the football and basketball games. Displaying precision and skill in their marching, the Pep Club lent color and spirit to all the games.

Pep Club

Precision Marches

Rain or shine, Karl Wood was always there to supply rhythm for the Pep Club.

Twirlers

High Steppers

Peppy twirlers strutted in Christmas and BYU Homecoming parades. Lois Olsen, Kathleen Rasmussen, Marjorie Bird, and Veloy Washburn added spice to the marching band. Barbara Ferrell, who completed the quintet, was absent when pictures were taken.

Provonian

Their News Was Good News

Gallies, proofs, and dummies became by-words of every member of the Provonian Staff, but especially were they leading in Editor Jeanene Parker's vocabulary. She worked diligently with Leslie Wheeler, adviser, and members of her staff to bring an interesting newspaper to the student body and invaluable experience to those who aided in its publication. Here the basic fundamentals were gained by tomorrow's city editors, reporters, and newsboys. Here was tomorrow's news source.

Advisor Leslie A. Wheeler and Reporters Mary Passarella and Marilyn Ball looked over the Provonian headline schedule.

Prolog

Take a Number

Co-Business Managers JoAnne Littlefield and Maxine Grosjean took over the business responsibilities of our newspaper.

Sybil Clarke became well acquainted with the responsibilities that come with being editor of the yearbook. She planned the yearbook contents, supervised work on each section, saw that photographs were full of interest, and kept production running smoothly. With her knowledge and experience she led the staff in the creation of our annual.

Handling ad sales were Sally Bown and Frank Madsen, Business Managers, with Faculty Adviser Glenn R. Kenner.

Under the guidance of Sherman Wing, Literary Editors Mona Bryner and Jeanene Parker, with Helen Keith as assistant, worked many hours to describe the happenings recorded in the yearbook.

Pro

Recalling a

Taking care of activities were Gail Wayman and Betty Rae Mahana. Carma Taylor organized the club section and Cozette Stewart and Helen Scott planned the departments.

The staff paused for a brief respite from their endeavors to produce the Provost.

Cleston Rigby offered sound advice to Dale Bryner, Art Editor, and Harold Graehl, Assistant Yearbook Editor.

"Thousand and One Nights"

Let this yearbook recall to us "A Thousand and One Nights" of magical, never-to-be-forgotten high school experiences. Recorded on these pages is a short chapter in our book of life; but no matter how brief, it is still the most highly prized in our treasure chest of memories.

Pushing sales to the top were salesmen, first row: Karl Wood. Second row: Donnell Walker, LaDawn Noble, Janet Kenner, Alice Mecham. Third row: Job Startup, Pat Beazer, Jill Clarke, Anne Cullimore, and Mary Lou Thorne. Absent were: David Mitchell, Marilyn Foutz, Virginia Ritchie.

In Memoriam . . .

Carol Rae Jameson

Dear Friend, we find the passing of the days
Has brought to us a parting of the ways.
We cannot see you now, as we did then,
Or know the brightness of your smile time and again.
The touch of clear reality is lost
And so do we begin to count the cost.
And yet, with all the sadness that a parting brings,
There is a note, clear as a bell it rings.
It is the memory of times we spent
Together, and we find the past is lent
A mellowness and richness that extends
Through all the years that come, as life depends.
To know you was to love your spirit true,
To have you for a friend, more than our due.
I think we shall defy the passing days
To dim or make less real your charming ways.
We'll keep alive the friendship that we've known,
And bless you ever for the good you've sown.

JB

In closing we wish to express our appreciation to all those who have worked on the yearbook, for the hours they have spent in making the Provost a success.

Larsen's Studio has our thanks for taking the pictures that have gone into this book.

We are indebted to the Spanish Fork Press for the patience and effort they have shown during the publication of our annual.

We are sincerely appreciative to the Mountain States Bindery for the commendable job they have done on the Provost cover.

Students, faculty, and especially Mr. Rigby have the thanks of the staff for the cooperation, support, and guidance they have given us.

Our ambition was to fill the Provost pages with memories that will recall "a thousand and one nights" and make this book one that everyone will want to read and keep and remember.

Hi Bob
well I guess
I didn't get to write in your Year book
at the end of school but I had going
I am glad I got to write in it now.
Remember all the fun times we had to the end of school and all the times you help me when Bonnie and I used with Bob I sure thank you all the luck a wonderful and I wish you have a
I hope you can find her. Lots love
Bonnie & Vivian

Dear Bob
Did not get to see you but just those I can always tell you
Bob I sure going to be awful around here
I wonder if that picture will you.
Bob here's wishing you again all the success
I hope Bonnie & Vivian (you & Vivian Bud) had with you.
Luck and success
A pal always
Jane

P. S. Don't get to drunk sept this, you go to

Dear Bob,
Here to all that lies before us and to the past we should have made the most of also. You are a lot like front sides you came back from Diego at
I love you just the same.
alice will fade away (I hope) in your memory as my insides do.
I wished you could have written in my book because I really wanted you to.
It seems hard to believe you have only ½ hour until you leave but then all good things usually have a happy ending.
If any home to me or "Valerie" will really be mad because she won't have a daddy or even be born.
I love you almost as much as your mamma does so hurry home to me.
all my love.
